“Austerity measures have meant continued strong pressure on public sector bodies to cut spending. While this has led to some outsourcing in the contract catering sector, it has also led to intense price competition and even reductions in some existing contracts. The private sector, meanwhile, has benefitted from ongoing economic development, which has seen the gradual return of confidence and security.”

Marco Amasanti, Research Analyst

This report looks at the following areas:

- The continued need to demonstrate value for money
- Need to tap into younger demographic
