“The primary narrative in the automotive industry over the past year has been the UK’s prospective exit from the European; while still speculative, the industry’s position at the forefront of international trade makes it particularly sensitive to negotiations.”

– Marco Amasanti, B2B Analyst

This report looks at the following areas:

- How has the realisation of Brexit progressed in the cars and commercial vehicles market over the past year?
- What sectors of the market have underlined growth over the past year?
- With the need for extensive negotiations around access to the single market, how are operators looking to safeguard their businesses?
- What roles have sustainability and technologies around this played in the industry over the past year?
- What is the outlook for the UK automotive industry over the coming years?

The global market was central to the automotive industry’s success over the past year, as huge exports drove British production to an all-time high, rising by 10.3% on the previous year. The importance of foreign trade cannot be underestimated during the coming Brexit negotiations, the safeguarding of which is fundamental to the market in the future.
