

July 2015

The Business Traveler - US

Continuing corporate profitability has boosted the business travel market, estimated to reach $234 billion in 2015. All segments of the market – including airlines, hotels, and rental car companies – have benefited as companies boost business travel spending. Heightened demand, industry consolidation, and pricing action have been advantageous for the ...