Beer, Craft Beer & Cider: Incl Impact of COVID-19 - Canada

“COVID-19 has dramatically changed Canadians’ drinking habits in the short term, though the same dynamics that had been evolving prior to the pandemic will likely remain in the years to come. When Canadians drink alcohol they are most likely to reach for beer. That said, on a per-capita basis, Canadians ...

Emerging Flavours and Ingredients: Incl Impact of COVID-19 - Canada

“Canadians’ demands of flavours and ingredients are complex. While many show a clear openness to trying new options, there’s also a strong pull to familiarity that can also bring comfort. There is an opportunity for companies to expose Canadians to flavours and ingredients less commonly considered to offer variety, but ...

Ice Cream and Frozen Treats: Incl Impact of COVID-19 - Canada

“Regardless of the innovation in ice cream, the category’s success rests on a timeless and fundamental principle, which is to provide enjoyment. During the COVID-19 outbreak, this central tenet may be more important than ever and will remain so in the near term.”

Snacking Eating Habits - Motivations and Attitudes: Incl Impact of COVID-19 - Canada

“Snacking remains a central part of Canadians’ eating habits and as they stay home because of COVID-19, snacking’s role has intensified. More time at home means more occasions to ‘nosh’. Snacking brands that are able to address consumers’ needs in this moment may see their relevance increase now and in ...

Sustainability in Food - Canada

"A week seemingly doesn't pass when there isn't a dire warning about the precarious situation the planet is in and if standard practices aren't changed how the environment will worsen. Though this is not in debate, how consumers are responding and will respond, is. With respect to food and drink ...
