

August 2022

The Future of High Street Retail - Ireland

“Although store-based retail continues to face tough competition from the online retail market, there has remained a need for physical shopping destinations as they have become important spaces for socialisation, interaction and connection between consumers as the need for a sense of community that grew during the COVID-19 pandemic has ...