

December 2011

Private Label Food and Drink - Europe

Across Europe, development of private label offers has been a key point of focus for the major food retailers. Faced with a tough economic climate and increased competition, investment in such areas is seen as an important means of both differentiating against the other major players and of protecting margins.