

July 2011*Credit Cards - Ireland

The recession continues to have an effect on the willingness of Irish consumers to embrace debt or to live beyond their means, and this has seen demand for credit cards begin to sag, with fewer consumers using them.