

September 2018

Cruises - Europe

“The new high profit levels may not be completely sustained over the next ten years as there will always be moments of economic (or geopolitical) crisis when profitability suffers but the industry has shown itself to be resilient and now all the major companies have much stronger balance sheets than ...