

December 2015

Commercial Borrowing - UK

“Many companies looked to improve their cashflow and become more adaptable to economic shocks following the financial crisis, in order to be better-equipped if or when another crisis occurs. Refinancing became a common tool to achieve this and could help explain why the amount of loans outstanding is in decline ...