

October 2015

Cruises - US

"Recent growth in the North American cruise market has come primarily from increased frequency of cruising by core cruising consumers, who are largely affluent and 55+, rather than by growing the number of cruisers. The industry needs to attract the new and younger cruisers who could ensure future demand keeps ...