

May 2010

Customer Service Expectations in Financial Services - UK

- The growth of financial forums mean that a relatively small number of people are having a major impact on brands' reputation for customer service. Just 4% of those who have been let down by a financial firm say they went online to complain about it, but their complaints can now ...