

May 2014

Social Networking - Ireland

“With Irish consumers becoming increasingly annoyed with advertising on social networking sites, these platforms could consider introducing a subscription-based advertising-free service akin to Spotify Premium. Such a service would appeal to consumers as it could enhance their site experience while also providing social networking sites with an additional source ...