- Rebecca Cullen, Household Care Analyst

- Chemical concerns relevant among young adults, parents
- Protecting family, fast-acting highest on long list of priorities

Warming weather trends have stimulated pest activity, driving up the need for pest products to help maintain a pest-free home. Accelerating sales growth beyond this moderate pace may require greater expansion of natural and non-chemical offerings to appeal to younger adults and parents who are most apt to use pest products and services but also have safety and chemical concerns.
