"US retail sales of beauty products reached $46.2 billion in 2015 and are slated to grow to $51.8 billion by 2020, for a gain of 12%. This slow and steady growth will be fueled by a stronger economy, as well as by population gains among women (and men), and multicultural segments, particularly Hispanics."

Diana Smith, Senior Research Analyst - Retail & Apparel

This report looks at the following areas:

- Beauty market slated for growth
- Amazon rivals specialty retailers as preferred retail channel
- Men are beauty buyers too
- Unlock the mobile moments

Definition

The focus of this report is on the retail experience where shopping for items in the beauty category are concerned, based largely on the results of Mintel’s exclusive consumer research.

For the purposes of this report, Mintel defines the beauty category to include the following: color cosmetics, facial skincare, body care, haircare, nail care, women’s fragrances, men’s fragrances, hair accessories, sun protection products, and beauty appliances (hair and skin).
Table of Contents

Overview

- What you need to know
- Definition

Executive Summary

- The issues
  - Beauty market slated for growth
    - Figure 1: Total US sales and fan chart forecast of beauty products, at current prices, 2010-20
  - Amazon rivals specialty retailers as preferred retail channel
    - Figure 2: Retailers shopped, October 2015
  - Rinse and repeat
    - Figure 3: Reasons for buying beauty products, October 2015
- The opportunities
  - Men are beauty buyers too
    - Figure 4: Beauty items purchased by men, by age, October 2015
  - Unlock the mobile moments
    - Figure 5: Behaviors and attitudes toward using mobile devices to shop for beauty products, October 2015
  - Give them what they want
    - Figure 6: Interest in retail innovations, by heaviest beauty shoppers, October 2015
- What it means

The Market – What You Need to Know

- Steady outlook
- Crowded landscape
- Population trends impact the beauty market

Market Size and Forecast

- Steady market growth should hold in the foreseeable future
  - Figure 7: Total US sales and fan chart forecast of beauty products, at current prices, 2010-20
  - Figure 8: Total US retail sales and forecast of beauty products, at current prices, 2010-20

Market Breakdown

- Color cosmetics clearly lead this multidimensional category
- Share leaders
- Fast-growing categories
- Facing challenges
  - Figure 9: Total US retail sales of beauty products, by segment, at current prices, 2013 and 2015
- Drug stores comprise nearly 20% of beauty sales
  - Figure 10: Total US retail sales of beauty products, by channel, at current prices, 2010-15

Market Factors
Population growth among women bodes well for beauty market
Men take a vested interest in their appearance
Multicultural segments are key targets
Figure 11: US population, by race and Hispanic origin, percent of total population, 2010-20
A brighter economy will help support sales in the market
Increasing interest in organic and natural beauty products

Key Players – What You Need to Know

Drug stores are holding their own while department stores slip back
Many men have no qualms about using grooming products
Technology is transforming how the category is shopped

What’s Working?

Drug stores experiencing success
Figure 12: Factors that influence where to shop, by primary retailer shopped – Drug stores, October 2015
Marketing to men

What’s Struggling?

Department stores trying to keep up
Figure 13: Factors that influence where to shop, by primary retailer shopped – Any department store, October 2015

What’s Next?

Subscription services are beginning to make an impact
Technology continues to invigorate the category
In-store immersion
Virtual tools

The Consumer – What You Need to Know

Opportunity to extend targeting efforts
Path to purchase gets more complex
Ample opportunity for experimentation by retailers and consumers alike
Mobile phones as personal beauty shopping assistants

Who’s Shopping for Beauty Products?

Over half of beauty purchasers are “heavy” buyers
Figure 14: Repertoire of beauty shoppers, October 2015
Figure 15: Beauty items purchased by store type, by repertoire of beauty shoppers, October 2015
Young parents are another key target group
Figure 16: Repertoire of heavy beauty shoppers*, by demographics, October 2015
Don’t overlook the men
Figure 17: Mean skincare and haircare expenditures, by gender and race/Hispanic origin, February 2014-March 2015

Retailers Shopped

Signs of channel shifting and blurring

BUY THIS REPORT NOW
Beauty Retailing - US - January 2016

Reasons for Choosing Where to Shop

Attractive prices and convenient locations drive nearly half of beauty buyers to their retailer of choice

Easy-to-navigate stores draw young male buyers

To help or not to help

In their words

Beauty Items Purchased

Grooming staples are commonly purchased items

High/low buying strategy in place

Hispanic women see beauty products as tools to enrich their looks

In their words

Reasons for Buying Beauty Products

Bee-lining to the products she knows and trusts

Young and multicultural women key targets for trial tactics

Product reviews can impact purchase decisions

In their words

Shopping Process Revealed

Attitudes toward Digital Technology

Power of the mobile device

Geo-fencing mobile strategies and beacon technology can help retailers engage with customers

BUY THIS REPORT NOW
Men prefer to consult their phones for advice instead of a human

Figure 34: Attitudes toward digital technology, by gender, October 2015

In their words

CHAI Analysis

Figure 35: CHAI analysis among those who agree they would be interested in smartphone/tablet apps that give them beauty product offers to redeem in-store, October 2015

Role of Social Media

Influenced and influential

Figure 36: Attitudes toward social media’s influence on beauty purchases, by gender, age, and repertoire of heaviest beauty shoppers, October 2015
Figure 37: Reasons for buying beauty products and/or choosing where to shop related to social media, by select demographics, October 2015

Over half of heavy beauty buyers use YouTube

Figure 38: Social media sites visited daily by repertoire of heaviest beauty shoppers, October 2015

In their words

Interest in Retail Innovations

More samples please

Figure 39: Desired retail innovations and/or improvements, October 2015

Younger consumers interested in delivery and pickup services

Figure 40: Select desired retail innovations and/or improvements, by gender and age, October 2015

Hispanics and Blacks like personalized assistance

Figure 41: Select desired retail innovations and/or improvements, by race and Hispanic origin, October 2015

If consumers were beauty store owners...

Appendix – Data Sources and Abbreviations

Data sources
Sales data
Fan chart forecast
Consumer survey data
Consumer qualitative research
Abbreviations and terms
Abbreviations
Terms

Appendix – The Market

Figure 42: Total US retail sales and forecast of beauty products, at inflation-adjusted prices, 2010-20
Figure 43: Female population by age, 2010-20
Figure 44: Consumer confidence and unemployment, 2007-November 2015*

Appendix – The Consumer

Figure 45: Attitudes toward digital technology, CHAI analysis, October 2015
Figure 46: Amount spent on beauty products in last three months – Makeup, haircare, and skincare, July 2014-September 2015
Figure 47: Attitudes and opinions about social media, July 2014-September 2015