“The transition to a low-carbon economy clearly has its challenges but local and regional governments, as well as deep-pocketed investors, have a leading role to play in creating energy-efficient, sustainable transport networks across Europe. State-of-the art intercity buses and coaches are certainly very much part of that scenario.”

- Jessica Kelly, Senior Tourism Analyst

This report looks at the following areas:

- What advantages do intercity buses have over other forms of transport?
- How is Europe’s greying population having an impact on bus and coach transport?
- What is the Trans-European Networks programme (TEN-T)?
- Is the travelling public ready for driverless buses?
